OEM TANK CAPACITY: 80L

YEAR FITMENT: 2015-CURRENT

Whether you have a petrol or diesel, long distance towing or have some rugged remote areas to travel the Long Ranger has the tank to suit your needs. If you want the maximum capacity you can get under the car in one tank the 150L TR75L is your tank. With a huge boost in fuel capacity thanks to a 87% increase to the standard 80L tank, while this tank hangs approximately 45mm lower than the OEM tank at its lowest point the design also incorporates a leading edge designed to maintain the standard ramp over angle.

If you want to improve the off-road capabilities of the Hilux and increase your fuel capacity at the same time for some serious adventure the 127L TR75S will hit the spot. Thanks to a great design utilising all the space we can find we have been able to keep the capacity at 127L yet managed to be slightly higher than the 4WD OEM tank and considerably improve the ramp over clearance in the critical middle area of the vehicle.

Both these tanks are available as a "P" version to suit petrol models to help the environment and include an additional antipollution carbon canister in the standard fit kit to ensure your Hilux is road legal.

Still need more under body fuel or water for your Hilux?

We will be offering 3 additional part numbers due to be released in early 2016

TW16SS which is a 36L Stainless Steel water tank that has been designed to be compatible with the OEM and both longranger TR75L and TR75S tanks.

Along with two more massive fuel options that will see our unique companion tank designs brought to the Hilux for the first time with the TR75LX and TR75SX offering either unbelievable touring range or two unique qualities of ground clearance and capacity not normally found in the same fuel tank design, so stay tuned!
